SULTAN'S MILLIONS IN U. S. BANKS

(Special from United Press.)
Vienna, July 9.—According to the Tagblatt, an Austrian paper usually conservative in its statements, Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan of Turkey, who is now a prisoner in Salonica, has an immense fortune, valued at several million dollars, deposited to his account in several banks in the United States. The Tagblatt declares that an American, whose name is being suppressed by the officials, stated that he knew every bank in America in which the ex-Sultan had deposits. This unnamed American has offered to tell the Turkish officials the names of the banks and the amounts of the deposits, for ten per cent of the money. The Turkish officials have asked the Turkish Ambassador at Washington to take up the matter with the American whose name is furnished to the Ambassador and if the offer appears to be genuine, the Ambassador is authorized to accept it in the name of the government.
If the money can be found the ex-Sultan will be prevented from securing it while legal steps are being taken to secure its return to the Ottoman government. When the Sultan was captured in Constantinople by the revolutionary Young Turks his place, the Yildiz Kiosk, was ransacked from cellar to roof in an effort to find his hidden wealth. Only a few million dollars were found and this was known to be only a small portion of the wealth he had accumulated during the years he had reigned. For years it has been commonly supposed that the Sultan, with Oriental cunning, had invested the major part of his fortune in America so that the story of the unnamed American is given much credence in official circles in Turkey.

Searching Passengers For Diamond Robber

(Special from United Press.)
New York, July 9.—When every passenger on board the Cunard liner Mauretania was carefully scrutinized by detectives from the Central Office today before any were allowed to land, it leaked out that the London police have called the New York police that a robber, accused of stealing gems valued at a half million dollars, is believed to be on his way to America with the stolen diamonds. Every passenger arriving in New York has been searched by detectives for several days on information from the London police. It was reported that the thief had gone aboard a Cunard liner.

MAURETANIA SMASHES ALL HER RECORDS.

(Special from United Press.)
New York, July 9.—The gigantic Cunard liner Mauretania which docked this morning smashed all her records on her west bound course, having covered the long westward course of 2,822 knots in four days, sixteen hours and 36 minutes. She arrived off Quarantine at 10:15 last night and could have landed her passengers had they not preferred to sleep on board. The Mauretania's average speed was 25.70 knots and Captain Pritchard believes that but for a fog he would have reached Quarantine before sunset.

HARRIMAN BEGINS SERIES OF MEDICINAL BATHS.

(Special from United Press.)
Vienna, July 9.—E. H. Harriman, the American financier, seemingly much improved in health, left here for Bad Gastein where he will begin a series of medicinal baths, in a special train to-day. He is confident that a short time spent at Gastein will do much toward building up his nervous system which the physicians have told him is depleted from overwork.
The Harriman train left Semmering, where the financier has been staying, last night, and stopped at Vienna for a few hours this morning. Greater confidence is felt in Harriman's improvement than has been apparent at any time since he came to Austria.

FOR FIRST TIME IN 30 YEARS AMOUNT OF BEER MADE SHOWS A DECREASE

Quantity of Spirits Manufactured Have Been Showing Decrease Since 1905 -- Figures Apply to Connecticut and Rhode Island--Less Tobacco Manufactured, But of Imitation Butter, a Million Pounds More.

The annual report of Robert O. Eaton, collector of Internal Revenue, for the district embracing Connecticut and Rhode Island, shows that the quantity of beer taxed in the district in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, has decreased for the first time since 1900. In 1908, 1,239,608 barrels of the fluid were made and in the fiscal year succeeding 28,123 barrels less. There has been an enormous decrease in the quantity of spirits taxed in the district, which was 227,302 gallons in 1908 and 122,546 gallons in 1909. The decrease in the amount of spirits manufactured has been continuous since 1905. The total receipts from internal revenue were $22,947.70 less than for the fiscal year 1908, when they were $1,834,346.63. The decrease was largely on the receipts from beer, although the receipts from spirits and cigars were diminished. Using the figures for 1907 and 1908, which are calendar years, it would appear that Connecticut manufactured fewer cigars, fewer cigarettes and less tobacco on the whole in the latter than in the former period. Doubtless the hard times of 1908 had much to do with this diminution. But if the panic decreased the amount of liquor and tobacco used it increased by more than 1,000,000 lbs. the amount of clove cigarettes or imitation butter used. Most of this was the uncolored variety. Tax was paid on 7,98,880 lbs. The use of denatured alcohol has not been great, as was expected when the duty was removed, largely because it is not manufactured at a price to compete with gasoline for fuel purposes. The production of beer and spirits in the district for the ten years periods 1890 to 1899 and to 1900, with the production for each succeeding fiscal year are given in the following table:

Barrels Beer. Gallons Spirit.

1880	121,993	79,043
1890	293,460	227,302
1900	739,212	155,357
1901	787,262	135,388
1902	844,433	139,716
1903	904,568	144,263
1904	907,317	146,428
1905	937,604	153,283
1906	1,084,103	154,288
1907	1,232,755	139,788
1908	1,239,608	123,867
1909	1,211,486	123,546

The comparative data concerning cigars made and tobacco used in production for the years ended Dec. 31, 1907 and 1908, for each state follows:

METAL MONEY.

The Greeks Started Coining Long Before the Christian Era.

The invention of coinage is due to the Greeks, most probably to the bankers of Halicarnassus and adjacent Asia Minor Greek colonies, who toward the end of the eighth century B. C. began stamping the small gold and electron ingots which passed through their hands as currency with a mark of some sort intended to guarantee the weight and purity of the metal. Such ingots very soon assumed a round and more regular shape, which we find already in the older silver coins from Aegina, nearly contemporary with the Asia Minor "beans."

Curious to say, none of the surrounding peoples with whom the Asiatic and European Greeks were in constant communication, political or commercial, took up the wonderful invention which at present seems to us of such obvious necessity that we scarcely realize how the civilized world of old can ever have got on without it. As a matter of fact, however, neither the Phoenicians, with their practical commercial sense, nor the Lydians nor the Persians, who claimed the supremacy over the very cities where the new currency was initiated, nor, of course, the Egyptians, ever had coinage till the conquests of Alexander disseminated the Greek civilization all through the eastern world.

The Romans came to know of it through the Greek cities in Sicily and Magna Graecia and began striking silver coins toward the beginning of the third century B. C. In the meantime with the Greeks die sinking, like everything else, had fallen within the domain of art, and their coins, above all those struck during the fifth and fourth centuries B. C. by the Dorians of Sicily at Syracuse and Agrigento, have never been equaled and remain forever a standard of beauty for the artist and a model of perfection for the die sinker.—London Saturday Review.

Speculative Life Insurance.

A mania for speculative insurances on the lives of public personages prevailed in England during the eighteenth century. Warren Hastings, the pretender, the rebel lords or the unfortunate Admiral Byng answered equally the purpose of speculation, and there were also regular quotations on the lives of notorious highwaymen. Sir Robert Walpole at one period of his career, when his life was endangered by popular tumults, was insured for many thousands, and when George II. fought at Dettingen 25 per cent was paid against his return. Such speculative insurances were, however, largely checked by the gambling act of 1774, which made insurable interest a necessary condition for a valid policy.—Argonaut.

No Picnic.

A Junction City man told of a remark made by a woman at whose home a number of people took supper one night during a political campaign in summer county. This particular woman, though young in years, was the mother of seven children. Naturally the children were reasonably close to one size. When the "campaigners" went into the woman's house one of them noticed the bunch of children and said to the woman in a friendly way, "These all yours, or is this a picnic?" "They are all mine," she replied wearily, "and it's no picnic."—Kansas City Journal.
